

Breahna Miller

Breahna Miller has a background of 13 years in the School Insurance industry. As a Risk Control Consultant, she worked directly with School Districts to assess risk and implement prevention strategies. Her responsibilities included developing and delivering presentations and training to Members, analyzing claims and recommending loss control solutions, conducting on-site visits and making recommendations, performing research and responding to requests for information, and assisting in the development and review of policies and procedures. Breahna Miller has dedicated significant time in her career to employment compliance. With the Insurance Pool she established an annual HR symposium, now in its fifth year, which provides valuable insights and resources to support school district administrators. In addition, she has taught the McGrath Response System to attendees representing over 80 school districts across Colorado, equipping them with effective investigation strategies.

Currently, Breahna works for McGrath Training Solutions, specializing in providing training for K-12 school districts in areas such as Title IX, sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, bullying, discrimination, leadership development, communication, supervision, evaluation, liability, Title IX compliance, and risk management. These trainings enhance administrators' ability to create a safe and inclusive environment for all students. Breahna also leverages her extensive experience in legal research to ensure that training content aligns with current laws and best practices. By staying informed of legislative updates, case law, and regulatory changes, she helps school districts navigate complex legal landscapes and develop robust policies to maintain compliance and foster a positive culture.

Breahna also holds a paralegal certificate, specializing in legal research with an emphasis on employment-related matters and litigation. This expertise allows her to bring a deep understanding of workplace issues and legal frameworks to her work, further enhancing her ability to support school districts in addressing complex legal and compliance challenges.